

BACHELOR OF ARTS

LIBERAL STUDIES CONCENTRATION: PRE-LAW

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION

Law school admissions committees agree that the most appropriate and beneficial preparation for law school is a traditional liberal arts education. It is important for students planning to pursue the study of law to take courses to refine their writing, research, critical thinking and argument formation skills. There are some basic areas of knowledge that are helpful to a legal education, including a fundamental understanding of human behavior and social interaction; of American history; of political; thought and of the contemporary American political system. The Bachelor of Arts in Liberal Studies with a Pre-Law concentration, prepares the student for graduate study in law.
