

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION

Paralegals serve a vital function in today's society. Many individuals are being denied access to justice, but by using paralegals to assist in their practice of law, attorneys are able to help greater numbers of people with legal problems. While a paralegal cannot give legal advice, set fees, or argue in court and may not provide legal services to the public except as permitted by law, the work performed by paralegals is essential in today's legal system.
